Internal Revenue Matters.

W[illegible], July 27.—The Commissioner of Internal Revenue will take no present action on the patent cigar box question. He has asked dealers to consider and suggest to him some plan by which the revenue can be more strictly collected, and his subordinate officers in the Bureau have been instructed to give their attention to the subject, so that having the views of both sides, he may come to an intelligent conclusion during the coming month.

NEW FOUNDLAND.

News from the Tigress.

NEW YORK, July 27.—A special from St. Johns says:

"The Tigress, in search of the Polaris, sailed this evening. She has been delayed here in order to make some repairs and have her boilers thoroughly and finally overhauled. According to best calculations she will arrive at Disco on or about the [illegible] of August."

BY ATLANTIC CABLE.

BAYONNE, July 28.—It is reported that a severe engagement has taken place near [illegible] between the Republicans and Carlists, in which the latter were successful. Two hundred and fifty prisoners are said to have been captured by the Royalists.

Republican Victory in Spain.

MADRID, July 27.—Government troops attacked Valencia yesterday. After a desperate struggle of five hours' duration fighting was suspended and the insurgents offered to capitulate, but their terms were [illegible] the Government demanding an unconditional surrender. Heavy reinforcements have been sent forward, and the attack will be resumed and the town bombarded to-morrow if the insurgents do not yield. Seville has been disposed to return to its loyalty to the National Government on certain terms, but as in the case of Valencia the Government will accept nothing less than unconditional surrender. It is believed that the insurgents will soon give up the city unless relieved.

HONGKONG, July 20, via LONDON, July 27.—A destructive typhoon visited Hongkong on the 1st inst. Great damage was done to foreign property and to shipping in the harbor. The telegraph cable between Amoy and Shanghai is broken.

No one knows when the trial [illegible] take place [illegible]

ARIZONA.

LOS ANGELES, July 28.—An army correspondent writing from Wickenburg, Arizona, July 20th, says the supplies for the Indians on several reservations are about exhausted, and grave apprehensions are entertained of trouble in consequence. Said appropriations have all been used up in animals contracts. The Agent at Date creek absolutely refused to receive certain supplies furnished for Indians under his charge, claiming that besides being of the poorest quality the price paid is double that paid for the same articles for troops who also get the best.

CALIFORNIA.

From San Francisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 28.—It is rumored that the Pacific Mail Company will in a short time abandon the Guaymas and La Paz line, and that the Colorado Transportation Company will buy the propeller Montana for $60,000 and place her on the route in connection with the Newbern. The report needs confirmation.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 28.—The steamer Japan arrived this evening from Hongkong and Yokohama. She brought about 1,200 Chinese passengers, which are all landed.

Robert McIvers, water tender of the steamer Colorado, was committed to the insane asylum to-day. He labors under the belief that the chief engineer of the steamer Robert Forsythe has robbed him of his reason. In consequence he has made several attempts to take Forsythe's life.

The general fund of the city and county is depleted. Demands to the amount of $20,000 are registered but remain unpaid for want of funds.

Four municipal and county conventions meet to-night: Taxpayers, Liberal Reformers, Republicans and Democrats.

The annual session of the Grand Tribe of the Improved Order of Red Men open to-day. There is a large attendance—all Germans.

Robert Butler, formerly of Oregon, was sent to the Insane Asylum to-day. He thinks swarms of insects are holding anti-Chinese meetings in his stomach, and that enemies are constantly pursuing him.

An accident occurred at the Pico House at 2:30 this morning. Mr. M. G. Pumphrey, of Oakland, fell from the third story to the pavement, sustaining severe injuries. He received a compound fracture of the left arm and suffers intense pain in the back. The extent of his internal injuries are not yet determined.

The Western Union Company commenced to stake out the route for construction of a telegraph line to San Bernardino via Anaheim and Riverside.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 28.—The Japan brings Yokohama dates to July 7. The Japan Gazette defends Minister DeLong, and says that our country never was better served in that Empire than by him. Political matters are quiet. There was an insurrection in Kiusiu Island, and troops had been sent to put it down. It is stated on good authority that as soon as the mission to Europe returns the whole country of Japan will be thrown open to foreigners. The rumors of trouble in northern China were unfounded.

Interior California.

GRASS VALLEY, July 28.—The Colfax and Grass Valley stage was stopped last night at 7:30 P. M. while on its way here by four men when about five miles from Grass Valley. They unhitched the horses, ordered the passengers out and then blew open W. F. & Co.'s safe. The robbers got about $7,000 or $8,000 in coin. None of the passengers were molested.

GRASS VALLEY, July 28.—Immediately on the arrival of the stage last night which was robbed, the officers started out in pursuit of the robbers. Early this morning the officers returned bringing with them two men whom they arrested on suspicion and they were sent to Nevada for examination. The officers are now supposed to be on the track of the robbers, traces of them having been found.

GRASS VALLEY, July 28.—Two more men, charged with robbing the stage, named Hilton Graves and Henry Thompson, have just been brought in by officers and placed in jail.

YOSEMITE, July 27.—The Yosemite Turnpike Company during the past week have had a corps of surveyors at work between Gentry's station and Yosemite Valley for the purpose of ascertaining the practicability of constructing a rather wagon road into the country. The levels have been taken, the distance measured, and the fact ascertained that an excellent road can be made at a grade of eight feet in [illegible] hundred, the distance from Gentry's to the foot of El Capitan being only four and a half miles. The total cost of the work will not exceed [illegible],000. They are now permanently locating the line preparatory to commencing operations, and it is expected that it will be completed for tourists travel next season.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 28.—The name of the young German who hanged himself yesterday is George Hansen. The Coroner's jury last night found a verdict of suicide.

Tyler Curtis, who left this city suddenly a few months ago, is with his wife at Milan. Mrs. Curtis is perfecting her musical education at that place.

The [illegible] on the Clay Street Hill Railroad is laid. The company intends to run the first [illegible] on Wednesday.

William Rollins, a miner working in the St. Johns Quicksilver Mine, while working [illegible] piece of rock weighing about 300 pounds fell from a wall, striking and breaking his left leg.

STOCKTON, July 28.—This morning, Matthew Cooper, a rancher living near Lockford, surrendered himself to the authorities of that township and made a statement that he had killed Mr. Edgerton under the following circumstances: It appears that Edgerton had leased the [illegible] property of Cooper, which offered a shorter approach to town than the traveled road. Cooper frequently warned him not to cross [illegible]. This morning Edgerton started for Stockton with a load of wood, and when crossing the disputed field he was met by Cooper, who requested him to turn back and traverse the road. Edgerton positively declined to do so. Angry words ensued, and Cooper alleges that Edgerton [illegible] with the intent [illegible]. He then opened [illegible] four shots [illegible] inflicting fatal wounds. Edgerton fell from his wagon [illegible] the team [illegible] and life [illegible] of the unfortunate man. The [illegible] was conveyed to the county jail [illegible] inquest [illegible] will be held to-morrow. The deceased leaves a wife and child.

Ah Ling received a fearful [illegible] Charles [illegible] at [illegible] Saturday evening.

The same informant says that [illegible] inflicted wounds [illegible] last evening.

SACRAMENTO, July 28.—Board of [illegible] board as [illegible] the assessment of the C. P. R. R. assessment on 41 miles of track was reduced from $14,000 to $10,000 per mile. The California Pacific railroad had its [illegible] was reduced from six [illegible] Valley Railroad's miles were reduced from [illegible] to six thousand [illegible] the assessment of the street railroad companies.

The [illegible] Board of Trustees to-day [illegible] the Holly works and passed [illegible] resolutions.

PERSONAL NOTES.

Joe Jefferson and family sailed for Europe [illegible].

The Shah and suite left Paris July 14th in a special train for Geneva.

The [illegible] that unlocks Turk [illegible] is the [illegible].

[illegible] of Philadelphia has given $100,000 to the public hospital of that city.

W. W. Corcoran, Washington banker, has given 8,000 acres of land to the Episcopalians in Texas.

Vice President Wilson occupied a seat on the stand at the temperance picnic at Natick on the Fourth, but was unable to deliver an address.

Col. Forney thinks Shakspeare's "Henry V." is not sufficiently valued and publishes three columns of the play to prove its title to supreme admiration.

The Cosmopolitan states that the United States Minister in London has had to pay calls on share of the International Joint Agency to the tune of $40,000.

John A. Kasson, M. C., has invested $55,000 in a National Gold bank of California, and has a still larger sum in a New York bank.

Prof. Light made a Fourth of July balloon ascension, and at the height of 2,000 feet dropped a chicken from his basket, which alighted unharmed.

Paul de Cassagnac, though but thirty-two years of age, has fought more duels than any man in Paris. It is said that he has slain no less than eleven of his antagonists.

A Paris correspondent complains that Mr. Hoey, of New York, who began life by driving an express, is carrying off the best pictures of the French exhibition by the wagon load.

Riding together in a carriage in Lexington, Va., one day last week were a nephew of Hon. Judah P. Benjamin, a daughter of Jefferson Davis, and a grand daughter of Gen. Albert Sidney Johnson.

The London lady whom Joaquin Miller is to marry is Miss Hardy, the novelist and daughter of Sir Thomas D. Hardy, long employed in the office of Master of the Rolls and himself a learned historiographer.

Mr. C. T. Chamberlain, said to be one of the promising men of Wisconsin, has been appointed to a Professorship in Beloit College. He has also been given the charge of the State Geological Survey by Governor Washburn.

When the Shah met Queen Victoria he kissed her with perfect delicacy and grace, and said that hitherto he had reckoned his years from the day of his birth, but in future he would reckon from the day of his meeting the Queen of England.

Sir Edward Thornton, British Minister to the United States, has leased the Harmon Livingston place, about a quarter of a mile from Catskill on the Hudson, for four months, and will make it the headquarters for himself and family this summer.

Rhoda Broughton, author of "Red as a Rose is She," and various other sensational stories, is described as the daughter of an English country clergyman, who has lived a very retired and uneventful life. But how wild—not to say wickedly—she has thought then!

Life at the "Old Roadside House," at Chappaqua, where the daughters and nieces of the late Mr. Greeley reside, passes very pleasantly. Croquet, cards, writing for the press, etc., fill up the time. Owing to the sickness of one of the carriage horses, riding has been suspended for a while. On the Fourth of July a wealthy neighbor gave a croquet party which the young ladies attended.—Home Journal.

Col. John Hay, of the New York Tribune, was recently called to the home of his family in Warsaw, Illinois, by the death of his youngest and favorite sister. The relation between the poet and his sister was one of peculiar tenderness, and her death, within barely a year of her marriage, breaks in rudely not only upon his life, but upon that of a most interesting and in many respects remarkable family.

THE TWIN RELIC.

The runaway wife of Brigham Young is going to sue for divorce and alimony, fixing her claim to the latter item at the modest sum of $100,000. This is the story we have from Salt Lake as the sequel to the recent separation. Now it occurs to us that Mrs. Young (if she call herself by that name) will have some difficulty in finding a court wherein her petition can be heard. Under our laws she is no more the wife of President Young than she is of the Persian Shah, and not having the legal status in marriage surely all talk about divorce must be sheer nonsense. There being no wifehood, where or how is the alimony to be recovered? Not in the federal courts, for they do not and cannot recognize the marital relation in this or any similar case; certainly she will not seek relief before the Probate Court of Salt Lake county, even if that tribunal assume jurisdiction of the matter, since this would be only verifying the old adage of going to law with the devil while the court sat in hell. We approve the woman's departure from the iniquitous system of polygamy, but at the same time think she is getting up a very unpleasant sensation for herself if it be true that she is considering the idea of divorce and alimony before instead of after her marriage with Mr. Young or any other man. If she be not the only legal wife in the prophet's connubial household, her chances for a hundred thousand dollars are extremely doubtful even before a susceptible jury. Better, Mrs. Young, to seek relief in an action for breach of promise, if the [illegible] on the[illegible] side, were not already a husband, when [illegible] wooed and won her. Divorce will then not remedies for the wrongs of polygamy.—Occasional Reporter.

CHARITY CRAZY.—A very touching case of mental aberration in a charming young lady is described by a careful observer. Not long since her mother found her in her [illegible] darning stockings, and soon after she appeared in the kitchen and assisted but wondering [illegible] in making and baking bread and pastry. Alarmed by these fearful signs of mental disorder her [illegible] parents immediately sent for a skillful physician, who watched her through the keyhole while she sewed buttons on her father's garments and mended the [illegible] her brother. Much affected the venerable [illegible] [illegible] never during a medical practice of [illegible] years had he known any young person [illegible] in such symptoms [illegible] the [illegible] the other day, when her kind father [illegible] [illegible] now [illegible] She instantly [illegible] that she did not [illegible] dress and [illegible] would [illegible] pay for [illegible] she [illegible] would take the rest [illegible] the [illegible] herself [illegible] the grief stricken [illegible] gazed [illegible] his hapless child [illegible] between his sobs [illegible]—N. Y. [illegible]

[illegible] personal knowledge [illegible] New York who was [illegible] to Europe during the summer [illegible] that this would deprive the clerk [illegible] annual vacation [illegible] [illegible] the post taking the place [illegible] in turn [illegible] for [illegible].—Chicago Weekly.

The following unique notice appeared [illegible] of the New York papers lately: "For sale—first class, seven and a half octave piano, property of a lady about to travel with a tree [illegible] and carved legs."

An important work of art is in progress in Boston, and is thus graphically described by the Boston Transcript: "A new statuette of Gen. Butler is in preparation, the two sides of the face being quite dissimilar. Seen from one side, the expressive face seems to wear prohibitory legislation in every lineament and feature. The clerical white choker adorns the sinewy neck, and the mouth is piously pursed up as though one should whistle at a funeral. On the other side the neck is bare, except for a Peter-Byronic collar resting loosely on the atlantean shoulders, while from the corner of the mouth a straw protrudes and a knowing wink partially closes the eye, such as one may see exchanged among the sons of Belial when one of them invites another to luncheon. Both profiles have their numerous admirers, but the full front is said to be less satisfactory."

James Johnson, one of the oldest and wealthiest citizens of the county, has donated eighty acres of land adjoining the city of Indianapolis, valued at $500,000, for the building and endowment of a medical college of the old school. The site chosen for the institution comprehends a station at the Bloomington railroad five miles from the city, the road agreeing to build an elegant depot there and to transport all the freight for the college free of charge. Mr. Johnson also gives twenty-five acres of ground for a campus for the college. It is proposed to move to the same point the Northwestern Christian University, which had a paid up capital and land worth $800,000, changing the name to Butler University, after the gentleman who has mainly endowed it by princely gifts of money and lands. It is also proposed to connect with the institution a law department and polytechnic school, making a University in fact as well as in name.

It seems that the entire dialogue between Mr. B. F. Butler and his temperance catechizer at Framingham has not been given to the public. Mr. Godfrey, the gentleman who asked after the would-be Governor's temperance principles, has been visited by a reporter of a Boston newspaper, and his statement makes the affair look worse than ever for the orator. Mr. Godfrey said he had intended to present his pledge from the platform, but being told by some of Butler's friends that if he dared to ask many questions he would be put off the stand, he took his place in the crowd and waited patiently till the now famous oration on rum and railroad was completed. Then he presented his question and received the answer which was telegraphed over the country concerning the impropriety of whistling at funerals. Then Mr. Godfrey says he retorted in this way: "While I may not whistle at your funeral I shall probably laugh at your political death at the polls of the coming gubernatorial campaign," and it was amid laughter at the retort that Mr. Butler retired.

The following [illegible] occurred [illegible] being St. Helens [illegible] between a [illegible] gentleman and his granddaughter:

"What makes your hair so white, grandpa?" inquired the maiden.

"I am very old, my dear; I was in the ark," says grandpapa humorously, but with a reckless disregard for truth, which does not prepossess us in the [illegible] favor.

"Oh," says the little child, regarding her relative with a fresh interest, "are you Noah?"

"No, I am not Noah."

"Are you Shem, then?"

"No, I am not Shem."

"Are you Ham?"

"No, I am [illegible] Ham."

"Then," [illegible] to [illegible] says, [illegible] [illegible] and [illegible] her [illegible] father [illegible] growing [illegible] that [illegible]

"No, I am not Japhet."

"Then grandpa, you're a beast."

A CURIOUS CRIME.—A distressing tragedy is reported from Central Italy near [illegible]. [illegible] man and his [illegible] wife were one day engaged in field work, while their little infant at the breast lay some distance from them on the ground. Suddenly a shriek was heard, which caused the man to run and see what had befallen the little one. A terrible sight met his eyes. One of the snakes common in Central Italy, attracted, no doubt, by the milky odor of the baby's breath, was [illegible] its [illegible] down its throat. In his despair the frightened father grasped the reptile by the tail, which was still protruding, but the snake [illegible] till the snake, out the tail broke and the child choked. In his excitement the man seized a shovel and struck his wife on the head, who remained at work entirely unconscious of what was going on, such a violent blow that she fell dead.

GENERAL NOTES.

The Graphic advertises [illegible] taken out by [illegible] from Atlantic [illegible] balloon trip [illegible] policies for the paper.

Newport is supported mainly by millionaires and solid citizens. Saratoga Springs can boast of more of the codfish aristocracy than any other place. Long Branch takes the bulk of the politicians and office seekers.

A Milwaukee servant girl, whose lover insisted upon an early day for the wedding, had gathered together eighteen towels, fifty napkins, twenty sheets, three quilts, seven dresses and several other articles when arrested.

Bills for medical attendance on George Francis Train, aggregating $1,800, were presented to the Board of Supervisors. Reports were made in favor of paying the claims for one fourth; the thousand dollars expenses in the prosecution of Stokes.

The Coffeyville (Kansas) newspaper, the Courier, recommends itself after this fashion: "The Courier is printed nearer the scene of the late Bender horror than any other paper. Those wishing to subscribe for a good live newspaper should make a note of the fact."

A Western farmer, it is reported, refused to look at a simple sewing machine recently, as he always "sowed wheat by hand." He is said to be related to the man who did not want a threshing machine on his farm, for, said he, "give me a harness tug or a barrel stave, and I can make my family toe the mark according to law and Scripter."

Young men who are studying for journalists may derive comfort from the fact that the Rhode Island Weekly Mercury is 115 years old, has never missed a publication day, and yet one of the reporters who has been on the paper since its birth, in 1758, now gets only nine dollars a week salary, and has to pay his tolls by passes to negro minstrel shows.

A good many Southerners had a relapse of rebelliousness this year, which caused the Savannah Advertiser of July 4th to make this prophecy: "The red hot patriot whose soul is still in arms will to-day mathematize the birthday of freedom, and shake his left fist at the starry emblem on an oyster scow, as he hauls the struggling crab to the surface."

An ocean anecdote apropos of the Inman crime is related as follows: "How near are we now?" within a quarter of a mile of land," was the joyful announcement made by the captain of an ocean steamer to his grumbling passengers. "Where? Which way is it?" were the eager exclamations which followed. "Anywhere down below there," said the captain, pointing toward the bottom of the sea. "The lead gives us just 220 fathoms of water, and the land comes slap up against the Prince, just as the City of Washington came 'slap up' against Gull Rock."

The number of dangers which are said to be threatening the country on account of the abolition of the franking privilege grows larger each day. The latest is, that the negroes of South are deprived of their sources of political information. This startling announcement moves the Springfield Republican to remark: "Who can withstand the humor of that? The spectacle of the poor cotton laborer lighting his pine knot after the toils of the day and reading through in course the bound volumes of the Congressional Globe in search of political information has in it the requisite dash of grim desperation and defiance of obstacle that gives to American humor its appalling audacity."

Frederick Schultz, living [illegible] [illegible] Nebraska [illegible] [illegible] Mr. Baker [illegible] [illegible] is [illegible] the deed.

A Montreal dispatch of the 26th inst. says the Directors of the North Colonization Railroad have accepted the tender of D. McD[illegible] and A. H. A[illegible], contractors, for $4,220 of exclusive of extra work, rating at $20,000 per mile, exclusive of bridges and equipment.

A bill authorizing the construction of the Church of the Sacred Heart, a grand cathedral on the [illegible] heights overlooking Paris, passed the French Assembly on the 24th inst., after an exciting debate, [illegible] which much violent language [illegible] evoked.

Baron Wolverton (George Carr Glyn), the head of the London banking firm of Glyn & Co., died on the 24th. The deceased, who was a Liberal, was among the first batch of Peers made by Gladstone when he first became Prime Minister in 1869. At the time of his death he was in his seventy-sixth year.

A Boston dispatch of the 24th says: "The failure of H. Y. Kimball of Atlanta, the great hotel and railroad proprietor in the South, and owner of the Kimball house, Atlanta, and other hotels, creates much remark in this section. The liabilities are said to reach five million dollars. His paper is secured by solvent men."

McDonald and Johnson have brought suit against the city of Cincinnati for the destruction by fire of their lumber yard on the 8th of June last. The fire originated from coal oil in the railroad depot, against which there is an ordinance which the plaintiffs claim the city neglected and wilfully refused to enforce. The damages are laid at $150,000.

The Journal de Paris of the 24th inst. says that the project of placing a Prince of the House of Hohenzollern upon the throne of Spain has not been abandoned. A number of Carlist leaders and former Liberal Unionists are said to favor the Hohenzollern candidacy. The Journal also says that the Cure of Santa Cruz was proclaimed a rebel by Don Carlos for being concerned in this intrigue.

The following General Order (No. [illegible]) was issued on the 24th inst. by order of the Secretary of War: Disbursing officers are not allowed to issue vouchers which are not due bills against the United States for unpaid accounts. The only exceptions under the foregoing will be the issue of certified statements of personal services and wages due in case that at the place of discharge they are not paid at the time of discharge for want of funds.

A New York dispatch of the 24th says: "A motion was made to-day in the Supreme Court Chambers before Judge Pratt, to remove Wm. M. Tweed, Jr., from the Receivership of the Commonwealth Fire Insurance Company. It is claimed the Receiver has not as required by law filed his quarterly reports with the Clerk of the Court, and that he has without the authority of law expended over $100,000, and that the bonds he is under of $50,000 is not sufficient security."

The following is the latest from Fort Garry: The Gordon case proceedings in Court on the 23d inst. were of a very exciting character. At the close of the address for the prisoners the Attorney General rose to reply, and his speech was full of bitter envy against the prisoners. He said: "The blackguards who have abetted them are the penny-a-liners," and closed by opposing the application for bail. The counsel was evidently under the influence of liquor, and indulged in coarse and vulgar invective against everything American, including the Courts, which he alleged were influenced by bribes, and threatened the Judge with public vengeance if he dared to admit the prisoners to bail. The Judge said he would not allow counsel to threaten him. The attorney said: "It is your duty to refuse bail and you dare not do otherwise." The Judge said: "I shall do as I think proper without dictation from you." Counsel replied: "Of course you will, but I still don't think you dare do this." The Judge here interrupted counsel and told him he was bringing contempt on the Court. Even this did not check the counsel. Mr. Royal, attorney for the prisoners, attempted to reply, but was stopped. The Attorney General urged upon the Court that granting bail was only putting a price upon the crime of kidnapping. This argument closed the proceedings and the Judge was driven home.

AN ATTEMPT TO ROB THE SHAH.

A correspondent publishes a story of a conspiracy to rob the Shah of Persia of his jewels. The party consisted of remarkable men, criminals of the first water, yet who were totally unknown to the police, and indeed, though often imprisoned, had never been convicted of any felony. They were Old Ogleman Hagner Hawkins, the leader of the party and organizer of the conspiracy; Scradino [illegible], another named [illegible] known as a false diamond broker of Marseilles, but formerly of Salonica; and Baron Narses Mijandich Dahran, formerly seraff or money lender of Aleppo, but lately of London and Paris. He is an Armenian, and said to be connected with the eminent [illegible] family, which so long has managed the finances of the Sublime Porte. The fourth and last actor in the conspiracy was Toby Spring, a first class burglar and safe blower. Toby Spring was left in London while the others went to Moscow and managed to get Narses introduced [illegible] to the Shah's suite. Hawkins then hastened to London [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] Square hired [illegible] of flunkeys and gave himself out for an American who had come to spend a few weeks in the great city and especially to [illegible] to his daughter [illegible] [illegible] It had evidently been designed to [illegible] the robbery here while the Shah was surrounded by his retinue at [illegible] Buckingham Palace [illegible] the Shah to visit [illegible] and while there to get possession of the jewels. According to the story an appointment was made [illegible] Hawkins at his house [illegible] When Narses was made aware of this [illegible] [illegible] and was seen in the [illegible] of the streets. Our Baker City correspondent says: "A large and brilliant assemblage gathered at the residence of Mr. D. H. Jackson on the evening of July 24th to discuss the merits of ice cream, cakes, etc., for the benefit of the new Episcopal church. The edibles were extensively discussed, the church muchly benefited, and Mrs. Jackson proved herself a good hostess."

A letter from Salem informs us that the house of Mr. Hoyt, agent and superintendent of the Willamette Woolen Mills, was burglarized on last Sunday night. The light-fingered gentry got away with Mr. Hoyt's valuable gold watch and chain, three pairs of blankets and sundry other articles. One would think such conduct as those would become monotonous to the Salemites after a while as they had it frequently repeated of late.

Four whisky venders along the line of the railroad were brought before Justice M[illegible] of Pierce county on Friday of last week, who bound them over in the sum of $250 each to appear before the district court to answer the charge of having sold and disposed of liquors without first obtaining a license.

THE LOUISIANA CASE OVER AGAIN

In the Washington Chronicle of July 15th appears a defense of the Kellogg government of Louisiana by T F Barrett, filling eight columns of the paper. The writer makes a very thorough argument of the question, and doubtless carries his point to the entire satisfaction of those citizens of Louisiana who sympathize with his side of the case, and utterly fails to convince the other side. At least such is the general result we should expect from any effort of the one party or the other to vindicate itself. Those who already believed the Kellogg party was in the right are furnished with arguments to use against their opponents; those who are in favor of the Warmoth side will pronounce the entire defense a sham and false, and nobody will be convinced.

This we say without reference to the merits of the controversy, that being a question which no sane man in this world or that above or below, excepting those directly interested, would pretend to be able to decide correctly. If a committee of United States Senators, after hearing all the evidence that could be adduced on both sides, were unable to arrive at any conclusion as to who was right and who wrong, and were compelled to adopt the course sometimes pursued by the Judge of the Fourth Judicial District of Oregon, and return a Scotch verdict, to the effect that they did not know what better they could do, than to leave the parties to settle it among themselves, we think he would be a rash man who would assume to pass upon the matter without the evidence. At any rate, the ex parte treatment which the case receives at the hands of Mr Barrett, howsoever candid, can scarcely be allowed to form the basis of a final judgment. Nevertheless his argument of the law seems to be pretty nearly conclusive, assuming his statement of the facts to be correct. His discussion of the questions involved is too long to be reproduced here, or to be of interest to readers who have not some closer connection with the subject matter than the people of Oregon. His indictment of H C Warmoth contains no new charge against that political knave, and on all the old ones, the charges of his attempting fraudulently and violently to deprive the colored people of their rights simply because they voted the Republican ticket, we suppose every intelligent person in the country who is not blinded by personal or partisan prejudice, is ready to render a verdict of guilty, without any evidence further than has been before the public for the last six or seven months. Indeed, that is the one point upon which the committee of Senators were not forced to render a Scotch verdict. They agreed that Warmoth was a political swindler and reprobate, and so reported in substance if not in so many words.

The President very properly based his action in the premises upon the ground that it was the duty of the Executive to [illegible] the decisions of the courts, and that the decision of Judge Durell of the U S Circuit Court for Louisiana, was binding on him and on the [illegible] involved so long as it remained unreversed by an appellate tribunal. The Government at Washington did not pretend to inquire whether Durell had decided correctly. But Mr Barrett goes into that question, and argues at great length and with much force to show that the Judge's decision was, in all respects, [illegible] law and a righteous determination of the case, and pronounces a splendid eulogy upon the character of the Judge as a gentleman, a citizen and a judicial officer.

After all, we apprehend the impartial and uninterested world, who have stood outside and watched the disgraceful squabble for place and power in Louisiana with more of pain than of preference for either side, will retain a well settled conviction that neither party has greatly over estimated the crimes or underrated the virtue of the other. Through the mistakes of counsel or of parties, a lack of thoroughness in investigation, or through fraud, it not unfrequently happens that law is made an instrument of injustice; and we think there can be little doubt that, howsoever honest and pure-minded Durell may be, and howsoever correct his decision upon the case made in court, the effect was that the will of the people of Louisiana was thwarted, their votes trampled into the filth by the feet of knavish politicians, and their liberties, for the time being destroyed. This is a patent fact. Explain it how you will it still stares the world in the face, and cannot be gainsaid. That this unhappy state of affairs is directly traceable to the rascality of Warmoth and his Democratic colleagues, no one denies. That the efforts of these men to carry out their fraudulent schemes, failed simply because their opponents were more expert swindlers than themselves most persons admit.

There is something in the air of Connecticut that is fatal to the caucus system. In the early part of the present month the Legislature undertook the election of three justices of the Supreme Court. The candidates were regularly nominated by a Republican caucus, but two members of the Senate [illegible] refused to support the nominees because it is alleged the latter possessed no [illegible] [illegible] of valuable service to the party. [illegible] The Legislature adjourned sine die without an election. It will be remembered that Senator Ferry was reelected last year after a compact [illegible] [illegible] ceived the caucus nomination.

The Newspaper Reporter contains a [illegible] mendation concerning the new postal law which ought to be of [illegible] value to country newspapers. It is suggested [illegible] their papers free [illegible] [illegible] who pay in advance [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] ty of payment and the interest on the [illegible] tion will more than compensate for the loss of twenty cents a year.

It appears from our evening dispatches that Mr Tyler Curtis, who left San Francisco somewhat suddenly a month ago with an extended line of figures on the debit side of his cash account, is converting his indiscretion to the best possible use by cultivating his own aesthetics and the voice of his faithful wife who has stuck to him with noteworthy fidelity.

BEAUTIFUL SNOW

This is one of the standing questions of dispute among American editors—the authorship of Beautiful Snow. Our neighbor Bulletin had a spasm over it last spring. Dora Shaw was the unfortunate woman on whom it was saddled then. There may have been a degree of appropriateness in fixing the guilt of this production on Mr [illegible], but the annexed correspondence summarily disposes of him as a victim to the "Beautiful Snow" mania. The letter reads as follows:

To the Editor of the Tribune: Sir—A paragraph is just now in circulation through the country press—accredited to "the New York correspondent of a Swiss paper"—containing the statement that the piece of verse called "Beautiful Snow" was written by William Winter, dramatic critic of the New York Tribune. I wish to say that the statement is false. I am a miserable sinner, but I am not the author of Beautiful Snow. I do not think that snow is beautiful. I live at times in an [illegible] and in the ocean, and I am practically unacquainted with the subject of snow. I consider that snow is a nuisance—almost as great a one as the New York correspondent of a Swiss paper, who has afflicted me with the dreadful imputation which I now cast back upon his thrice accursed head. I once read a portion of Beautiful Snow (who does not?) and I must be permitted to say that there is something barbaric in the cruel pertinacity with which many persons are laboring to fix the authorship of that melancholy mush upon their innocent fellow-creatures. Baleful must be the mind that can engage in this diabolic work—devastating the peace and blasting the hope of a brother mortal! This has been a quiet summer. For at least six weeks I have not been accused of bribery, corruption, conspiracy or body-snatching. I had begun to think myself secure from calumny for as much as three weeks longer. Fond delusion! The spoiler arises in the likeness of a Swiss correspondent—and all is gas. But—he shall not triumph in the silence of his victim. There are limits even to the patience of a dramatic critic. I am not the author of "Beautiful Snow," and I defy him. And while I am upon the subject I will likewise state that I am not the author of "Nothing to Wear," nor of "Rock Me to Sleep," nor of "Betsy and I Are Out," nor of "Shoo-Fly," nor of the Letters of Junius.

WILLIAM WINTER

NEW YORK July 13 1873

The San Francisco Call says that Senator Casserly is waiting for Senator Hipple to come to that city before proceeding with labors of the Windom Committee on Transportation. Immediately on the arrival of Senator Hipple the subcommittee will commence an investigation of the following among other, matters: Charges made for freight on exports to Liverpool and other ports during the last twenty years; the value of the grain exported; the quantity sent to English and other ports; the rates of transportation from the interior to the seaboard; the cost of transportation and storage; the cost of railroads; the actual freight charges; percentage of the cost of maintenance to the cost of the roads; the per centage of receipts to the actual cost of transportation; the profits of the freight business; the speed of trains with regard to maximum profits; the charges on way and through freights, showing what discriminations are made; the advantages to be gained by the establishment of through freight lines, and the general effect of those lines upon the cost of transportation. On the above and cognate matters information is requested from all who have facts to communicate. The deliberations of the committee will be open.

We don't want to call in question the amiability of our splenetic Chairman of the Committee on Foreign Relations, Mr Simon Cameron. But we are not quite ready to yield full faith and credence to every hap-hazard certificate to character, with the manufacture of which the old gentleman beguiles his leisure hours. The last effort is directed at Speaker Blaine. It is supreme. He objects to Mr Blaine because the latter forfeited his support when he appointed Dawes, of Massachusetts, Chairman of the Committee of Ways and Means. And what was poor Dawes' offense? Why, he introduced the resolution censuring the Pennsylvania Senator as Secretary of War, and calling upon Mr Lincoln to remove him. For the last ten years Simon has been laboring to have that odious resolution expunged, but he hasn't found his Tom Benton yet, and the indications are that his heirs and assigns will have to continue the struggle. At any rate, good Simon has put Henry L Dawes in his long black list, and James G Blaine of Augusta can never be President. Simon says, "Blaine down," and Blaine goes down.

The people of Washington county are making some scientific investigations in connection with the phenomenon commonly known as carrying the mail. The disappearance or detention of their mails in going over the enormous distances between Forest Grove and other prominent points in the county, we are assured, is extremely interesting to contemplate. They say this singular occurrence is especially manifested in connection with the transportation of the Forest Grove Independent—which there is milk in that cocoanut.

That Zanesville Ohio, man who makes objection to the boys bathing in the reservoir from which the city is supplied, is too fastidious to live in any well regulated city.

TACOMA, THE FUTURE CITY

TACOMA W T July 26 1873

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

The people come and go daily to see and decide upon the terminus. It is not enough that the commissioners who represent the builders have passed a final judgment upon it. The approval of their choice of Tacoma by the home board, telegraphed to the committee before the announcement of the plan to the public, does not satisfy that public. They persist in keeping the question open and quizzing: "What do you think of the terminus?" "Will the excitement continue?" "How foolish to buy lots now." "Wait and see the bubble burst." "After good sales have been made you will see the town decline."

To all such quizzing we say: The terminus is fixed at Tacoma, not by the fiat of the commissioners, but by the conditions of commerce. The carrying trade, which all railroads represent, seeks the combinations of cheapness and quickness. Freights demand the former more than the latter. It is impossible for a railroad to compete with navigable streams, bays or sea.

De Fuca Straits and Puget Sound are such water courses. It is as cheap to bring freights by water to Tacoma as to Seattle or even Port Townsend. If a railroad were built to either place, its freight service at would be worn out in profitless competition. The laws of trade make the New York canal a success. Their [illegible] [illegible] and from the Mississippi to Lake Michigan. The Creator has furnished this natural highway in the Sound which those laws will match, put these in proportions greater than Long Island Sound or Boston Harbor, or the Thames have ever [illegible]. The great population of the world have long been on the Pacific shores. The heaviest material products of the lands are and are to be slowly developed on these shores, and to be transported upon these waters. The entrepot must surely and easily be connected with trans-continental railroads must in the great emporium of commerce. By this [illegible] San Francisco [illegible] [illegible] and many [illegible] and writers yield to the claim. But the engineer enters with his logic of figures and shows that the "valley routes" must win in the ceaseless attritions and waste of wood and iron. The road over high mountains wears out quickly and consumes profits, while the lower grades continue good and cumulate their profits surely. This great valley route of the North Pacific Railroad up the Columbia, in which Portland also has a lively interest, finds its natural terminus and meets the sea at Tacoma.

SURGERY FOR LUNACY

[illegible] A MAN'S SKULL [illegible]

[From the Decatur (Ill) Republican]

Our readers will remember the account [illegible] in our paper last week of the intent [illegible] tion of Lawrence Boyle, an insane pauper at the County Poor Farm. For six years he has been raving, and his insanity being caused by a blow on the head, and the best physicians agreed that no relief could be obtained, save through the operation of trepanning. [illegible] theory of these [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] skull by the blow mentioned above [illegible] [illegible] nothing [illegible] [illegible] that unnatural pressure upon the brain would leave the [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]. The Board of Supervisors last week authorized the County Physician, Dr Cass Chenoweth, to call to his aid such professional assistance as he deemed necessary, and perform the operation, a [illegible] [illegible] afternoon the [illegible] and dangerous task was performed at the Poor Farm.

The county physician called to his aid his father, Dr W J Chenoweth, and Dr J [illegible] Walston, and they, accompanied by the editor of the Republican, arrived at the Poor Farm between two and three o'clock. Some unavoidable delay occurred in the preparations necessary, and it was not until four o'clock that the lunatic was led from his cell by the superintendent of the poorhouse, Mr Watt, who is the only person living any control over him. A long table had been placed under the shade trees in the yard, upon which Boyle was easily induced to lie down, and at four minutes past four Dr Walston began to administer chloroform, Dr W J Chenoweth standing on the opposite side of the table with finger on the patient's pulse and Mr Watt sitting at his side, holding the unfortunate man's other hand, prepared to restrain anything like violence upon the part of the patient. While the work of chloroforming was going on, Dr Cass Chenoweth was busily at work clipping the hair from the man's head, and when everything was in readiness at 4 o'clock and 10 minutes he began to cut the scalp. Two long incisions were made crossing each other at right angles, and the scalp was drawn back from the skull in much the same manner as an orange is peeled. This was the work of five minutes, and at 4 15 the Doctor began to bore with the trephine. This is an instrument which resembles in shape an ordinary punch with a handle like that of a gimlet, the end of the cylinder being serrated or furnished with teeth something like those of a saw. The use of this instrument is to bore a hole in the skull from which the surgeon can start his saw. Eleven minutes sufficed to bore through the skull, and at 4 26 the circular plug around which the trephine cut its way was taken out and the brain of the patient laid bare. The appearance of this plug upon examination was very singular, showing a much greater thickness of skull than is found in most cases, and also revealing a complete union of the outer and inner tablets of the skull, the separating portion of bone having become completely ossified. Not much time however was wasted in this examination, but the outlines of the portion of the skull which it was thought proper to remove were at once decided upon, and the young surgeon proceeded to use his saw. This was the most tedious and delicate portion of the operation, owing to the danger that existed of sawing too far and severing an artery, which might cause the patient to bleed to death in a few seconds. Therefore the utmost care was necessary and considerable time consumed in this part of the work. At 4 55, just 29 minutes from the time of beginning to saw, the task was completed and the piece of skull removed. This piece was 2½ inches in length and 2 inches wide at the widest part, tapering from the base toward the circular hole made by the trephine, and much resembling a keystone in shape. When this was removed the necessity of the caution used was at once made apparent, for crossing the opening made in the skull and overlying the brain was an abnormally developed branch of the middle meningeal artery, which one or two more motions of the saw would inevitably have severed. The work of removing the little spicula of bone, washing the parts with water and closing and sewing up the "flaps" was accomplished in a very brief time, and at eight minutes past 5 o'clock—just 58 minutes after the first incision was made in the scalp—the operation was complete. A few minutes afterward the patient sat up, and conversed with those standing by, but apparently failed to realize that anything had been done, and though he seemed to act differently from what he formerly did, there was no perceptible improvement in his mental condition. We learn that he passed a comfortable night and this morning appeared more rational than at any time since his lunacy began. It is to be hoped that his complete recovery may speedily follow.

HOW THE GOUT CAME

An old Scottish gentlewoman (one of those genealogical ladies now becoming rare) would never allow that any but people of family could have bona fide gout. If it was mentioned that a "roturier" was afflicted with that disease she would shake her head: "Na, na! it's only my father and Lord Galloway that have the regular gout." In Blackwood's Magazine, 1863, in a paper of surpassing humor appeared the following:

"That pain which you feel in the joint of your great toe," quoth Monsieur Gout, "has, you flatter yourself, become rather less since eight o'clock, when you took your last dose of colchicum. Quite a mistake, my dear sir. The member is, if anything, more swollen and inflamed than before. Observe, now I shall take the liberty of inserting this little awl, just by the way of probe. Aha! it makes you wince. A very good sign that, however, since it proves that there is no ground for apprehending immediate mortification. Now do you know why it is that our toe is so singularly sensitive? I'll tell you. You remember three years ago ordering a batch of Burgundy. Previous to that time you had been in very good health, for you had plenty of occupation and little leisure for gluttony or wine bibbing; your means were limited, and during the holidays you took a sufficiency of pedestrian exercise. Really, in those days I never expected to have the pleasure of making your acquaintance. I consider you just the kind of fellow likely to become an ornament of the Alpine Club. But your estimable uncle, old Jones the stock broker—bless you, I knew him very well indeed; many a time have I chatted to him when he was roaring like an aggravated bullock—your old uncle Jones, I say, died and left you his money. You are not going to sleep, are you? Well I call that rather unhandsome treatment, considering that I have taken the pains to come here and bear you testimony. A slight touch of the pincers may, however—aha! all's right again; you are as lively as a snapping turtle. Whereabouts was I? Oh I remember. Old Jones left you his money, and you determined to take your ease. No one can blame you for that. What's the use of fagging to make money when you are in possession of a cool £4,000 a year, and may indulge in a shooting box and hunters? But you could never make up a respectable bag on the moors, and on horseback you were anything but a [illegible]. [illegible] You preferred living in town, took chambers in the Albany, gave nice little recherche dinners, and laid in that stock of Burgundy to which I have already alluded. It was of a fine vintage, strong and healthy, and made the blood circulate in the veins like lightning. To it I attribute the honor of our first introduction, though port and claret and [illegible] to mention sundry kinds of delicious entrements did undoubtedly contribute to lessen the distance between us. Then you took to late hours, hot rooms, and scarce, almost justly included in the catalogue of fashionable pleasures, and our acquaintance at first slight has now ripened into permanent friendship. But I really must not allow my feelings to divert me from the scientific purpose for which I have visited you to-night. Don't be afraid. I shall lay aside awl and pincers and try the experiment by ejecting a few drops of molten lead between the flesh and the bone. [illegible] what an eyeball swell. You'll be glad [illegible] [illegible] are in a perfectly healthy state, and may last you for the next twenty years, if you don't [illegible] [illegible] to get into a [illegible] state. By the way what a silly proverb that is [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] things to an extremity. [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] What is it that you say? You will that I would go to the devil? [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] in reply that you are both rude and ungracious. [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] quences of your indiscretion."

Archbishop Shield is not only wished for, but it but paid for £1,000 to any person who would help him to it, looking upon it as the only remedy for the distress in his head.

Tukawaken furnishes the merriest scene of which the facetious telegraph has spoken lately. Twenty thousand Japanese farmers on a tear, destroying houses and raiding gentility. What a loss to the graphic art that [illegible] [illegible] must not be done up after the style of [illegible] [illegible] Quiddities. We can imagine [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] some than twenty thousand Japanese [illegible] a bag.

MEETING OF THE STATE CENTRAL COMMITTEE

The Republican State Central Committee will meet at EUGENE CITY on THURSDAY, THE 7TH DAY OF AUGUST 1873, at 7½ o'clock P M, to arrange for the approaching election of a member of Congress to fill the vacancy occasioned by the death of Hon [illegible] Wilson, and for such other business as may be [illegible] proper. A full attendance of the members of the Committee is desired.

CITY.

MORE CASES.—It would [illegible] [illegible] seems to conclude [illegible] serve the new ordinance in regard [illegible] streets, and keeping the sidewalk [illegible] obstructions By the passage of the [illegible] the Common Council most certainly intended to have its provisions enforced The [illegible] into active effect of the provisions of the municipal law in this particular is entrusted to the Street Superintendent. It is [illegible] the officer to see that the ordinance is [illegible] with both in the letter and spirit. With him there can be no option. He is [illegible] as a public functionary to enforce the law. We are gratified to observe that the Superintendent is acting promptly and with commendable firmness in the [illegible] of this part of his duty. Already several citizens, many of whom are [illegible] engaged in business in the city, have been arrested and promptly fined for willfully neglecting to observe the prohibitions of the ordinance. Yesterday, Mr Hubschman reported several more cases, where parties neglected or refused to clean the streets in front of their places of [illegible] or residences. These [illegible] cases will be called up for trial in the Police Court. Considerable complaint is a natural consequence follows this apparently rigorous enforcement of the ordinance, but there will soon be no hardship when the people see that the law is uniformly enforced without regard to circumstance or condition

OVER THE BREAKERS.—Surf bathing has its perils as well as its pleasures. A few days ago Henry Burke, son of officer Burke, while out bathing at Clatsop very narrowly escaped death by drowning. In company with a party he was swimming in the surf, and being lifted with a [illegible] spirit, advanced boldly out from the shore and swam over the first swell. On attempting to return to the shore he found to his alarm, and to the equal consternation of his young companions, that the tide would not allow him to do so. Despite all his efforts to regain the beach, the surf drew him out further, until he was borne on the [illegible], w[illegible] beyond the line of the breakers. His companions gave the alarm, and a number came down to the [illegible] to rescue Henry if possible. He was kept out some time, but at length by superhuman efforts, managed to cross the breakers, and was cast on shore by the incoming tide, which fortunately had set toward the land. Young Burke was chilled through and [illegible] exhausted. Restoratives were applied, and he soon revived. It was a very [illegible] and the young man will doubtless profit by his experience

CANINE [illegible].—A few days ago Mr Ludwig, of East Portland, found a small black kitten near his brewery, which had to all appearances been abandoned by its mother. Out of the kindness of his heart Mr Ludwig took the little creature home and adopted it. He has a [illegible] dog which took a great fancy to the [illegible], and is living on the most affectionate and intimate terms with the cat. The kitten [illegible] to think as much of the dog as [illegible] of the natural mother. In its attentions to the juvenile feline the dog is most [illegible]. When food is given to the dog, the [illegible] to the wants of its charge, allowing the kitten to satisfy its appetite before [illegible] the food. The dog at all times guards [illegible] with a careful and jealous eye. [illegible] a rather unusual instance of [illegible]

A [illegible] BOAT.—In front of Gatens' saloon on W[illegible] street, could be seen yesterday a very [illegible] shell boat. On inquiry we [illegible] that this boat was built last winter at [illegible] by a Mr H N Nice. The boat was [illegible] for Messrs. F Gatens and J Moore, of this city. It is 38 feet long and weighs about 130 [illegible]. With four men sitting in the shell it draws only four inches of water. [illegible] and is made of cedar, and is [illegible]. It is a four oared boat [illegible] and skillfully manned, can [illegible] pass any boat of the same kind in [illegible]. Last evening this new rival [illegible] for the first time and a trial trip made.

FOR THE SEASON.—Early in the spring it was the [illegible] of the O S N Co to construct a new [illegible] boat the present season. This new boat was [illegible] to perform lighter [illegible], and was to be built with [illegible] to that purpose. Lumber was [illegible] at one of the mills and sawed some [illegible] ago. Partially in consequence of the want of activity in business, and more recently owing to the purchase of the steamer [illegible] by the O S N Co, work has been deferred until the present time. With the addition of the last mentioned boat it is thought that there will be no necessity for building [illegible] for the present season.

[illegible] UP.—The recedence of the water has left the lower wharves below Pine street bare [illegible]. Deposits of sand and mud have, as a [illegible] of course, been left behind. Yesterday we observed a number of men employed in scraping up and wheeling away the earth left by the water. In a few days freight will [illegible] be received on, and discharged from, the wharves which until recently have been submerged.

JURORS AND WITNESSES.—All the jurors and witnesses in attendance on the U S District Court were discharged Saturday, there being no further need for them during the remainder of the present term. Included among the witnesses were the dozen or more Indians who have been [illegible] about the streets with a lordly air for the last three weeks. These "forest flowers" have all flown to their haunts.

SUSPENDED AGAIN.—Work on the Stark street sewer has [illegible] been suspended for the want of tile. Last week the first installment of tile was laid, and the second lot was expected to arrive on Saturday evening. [illegible] as yet not known no tile was shipped, and the work of laying the sewer was of necessity [illegible] suspended. In a few days the work will be resumed

ADJOURNED.—After several days session, the Great Council, of the Improved Order of Red Men, adjourned on Saturday evening at 11 o'clock. This was the first meeting of the Great Council for Oregon. Harmony and good feeling characterized the deliberations of the body. The next meeting of the Great Council will be held in this city on the third Tuesday of July 1874

PUMPING OUT.—For the last few days the Portland Gas Company have had [illegible] pumps operated by steam at work day and night in drawing off the reservoir to be used as a gas holder. The water has been pumped out [illegible] in a few days a number of men will commence to lay concrete on the bottom

DISCONTINUED.—The Good Templar Lodge at [illegible] has been discontinued. The [illegible] was raffled off, which belonged to the Lodge, on last Saturday evening. A social dance was indulged in at the conclusion in which a number of ladies and gentlemen participated.

CEDAR LUMBER.—A sloop reached the city on Sunday from down the river loaded with cedar lumber. About 100,000 feet [illegible] on board. This lumber is for the [illegible] [illegible] of the city. It is being [illegible] the O, S N Co's wharf

REGULAR MEETING.—The [illegible] of the People's Protective Alliance will hold this evening at the hall of [illegible] Post, G A R for the transaction of [illegible]. A full attendance is desired. Time of [illegible] 8 o'clock

[illegible]

Mr Nevill Chairman of the committee [illegible] [illegible] together with [illegible] the [illegible] Alliance [illegible] the first [illegible]

On motion [illegible]

DECLARATION [illegible]

The following declaration [illegible]

WHEREAS, the immigration of the Chinese is growing [illegible] families [illegible] driven away [illegible] compelled to suffer [illegible] resolved

First—That [illegible] Protective Alliance [illegible] the purpose of seeking relief by petition to the President and Senate of the United States asking a modification of our treaty with China [illegible] the immigration of [illegible] labor

Second—That we rely upon [illegible] to sustain us in our undertaking, [illegible] appealing to the prejudices against the Chinese we earnestly request the people to unite with us in this good work in [illegible] able way [illegible] public opinion [illegible] tion to Chinese immigration

Third—We recognize the fact that the Chinese in this country are under treaty with the Government entitled to our protection that we only ask a remedy through legal means and national laws

Fourth—We hold as friends those who are with us in opinion and as [illegible] all who continue to encourage the immigration of Chinese laborers to compete with our own people

Fifth—We will not vote for or in any way support for office any man who is not [illegible] in opposition to Chinese immigration and in favor of stopping the influx of China laborers [illegible] that we [illegible] the duty of every good citizen to mark well the conduct of new converts to the cause who are now seeking official position

Sixth—That the County Assemblies and Primaries in this State and elsewhere in the States and Territories on the Pacific coast are earnestly requested to be vigilant in their opposition to all candidates who favor the importation or immigration of Chinese cheap labor

Seventh—That we caution the anti-Chinese element against supporting candidates who have made pledges to the people here [illegible] and failed to keep them, if they forfeit their honor in violating one pledge they will do it again. Trust them not

Mr Van Cleave introduced the following resolutions which were adopted

WHEREAS, The Daily Bulletin of the 2[illegible]th inst [illegible] in which the writer with all the [illegible] of an inspired prophet declares that our treaties with China will not be abrogated and that we cannot exclude Chinese from our country for the reason that the country won't permit it, thus placing said journal in opposition to the friends of the anti-Chinese movement on this coast therefore

Resolved, That we are in earnest [illegible] efforts to procure such a modification of the treaty between the United States and China as will stop Chinese immigration to this country and ultimately cause the removal of those now amongst us and as an evidence of our sincerity be it further

Resolved, That it is the duty of all the friends of the anti-Chinese movement to withdraw their patronage from the Daily Bulletin.

Resolved, That the thanks of the Central Council of the People's Protective Alliance are due and are hereby tendered to the editor and proprietors of the Evening News for the very able and manly course of that journal in relation to the anti-Chinese movement on this coast

The Council then proceeded to the election of officers under the Constitution and By-laws adopted at the previous meeting, with the following result: President J S M Van Cleave, Recording Secretary W B Ross, Treasurer T R Turnbull, Sergeant at Arms J W Collins

On motion the Council adjourned to meet on the evening of the 2d of August 187[illegible] at 8 o'clock.

850,000 Acres Land

IN SOUTHERN OREGON.

Title Perfect—U. S. Land Grant Fully Confirmed.

THE PACIFIC LAND COMPANY INCORPORATED with capital stock of 5000 shares of par value of $240 each, have purchased the road and entire land grant of the OREGON CENTRAL MILITARY ROAD COMPANY, consisting of over 850,000 acres of Agricultural, Grazing and Timber Lands,

Lying from Eugene City (12[illegible] miles from Portland by Railroad) through the splendid "Lake Country" to Silver City near the border of Idaho

Each share of the PACIFIC LAND COMPANY thus representing now over 160 acres of land, and is UNASSESSABLE.

Three thousand shares belong to the Company and will be offered for sale by us, the entire proceeds of which will go into the Treasury

The first one thousand shares will be offered at $1[illegible]0 per share, UNITED STATES CURRENCY—say at the rate of [illegible] cents per acre. Every share will also be received at its par value of $240 in payment for land, as soon as the appraisals are made. Such share will then be cancelled and not reissued and a deed given to the purchaser

The land will be appraised at moderate rates in accordance with its actual value as soon as [illegible] sold. In sections of 640 acres and at not less than $1 [illegible] per acre, U S CURRENCY, and offered for sale. Actual settlers however always having preference

We refer as to the character of this magnificent grant to Hon CLARENCE KING, Esq the U S Geologist for this coast who is familiar with it from personal observation also to the elaborate report of the Hon B J Pengra late Surveyor General of Oregon on this road and lands from which we quote. There is but very little of the entire grant but what is valuable for either Farming, Grazing or Lumbering purposes

As shares are cancelled the average of acres to the remaining shares will naturally increase and from each sale dividends will be declared

IMMIGRANTS,

BY BUYING THESE SHARES, CAN SECURE GOOD LANDS, WITH PERFECT TITLE, AT LESS THAN GOVERNMENT RATES.

For Custodians of Trust Funds the shares of the PACIFIC LAND COMPANY combine absolute security (based on the lands with promise of large returns) [illegible] no investment can be better for CHILDREN, as the value of the property must increase immensely in a few years.

Remittances for shares can be sent to us by Wells, Fargo & Co, or in registered letters

Full particulars, maps and a descriptive pamphlet can be [illegible] at our office, where the subscription book for the shares is now open

COLEMAN'S EUCALYPTUS

Dr J S Coleman's Compound Extract of Eucalyptus is a preparation combining all the valuable medical qualities of the Eucalyptus [illegible] California garden for its medical utility having been [illegible] remedy for [illegible] KIDNEYS, BLADDER and URINARY CANAL and SEMINAL WEAKNESS. It seems to have [illegible] affinity for the GENITO URINARY ORGANS and their [illegible] at once [illegible] by its alterative healing and balsamic properties more effectually than any other known remedy

It is an invaluable remedy for all diseases of the mucous and serous membranes such as BRONCHITIS, HACKING COUGH, NAUSEA DURING PREGNANCY, DYSPEPSIA, LEUCORRHEA etc

This preparation is the result of Dr Coleman's experiments with the medicinal properties of the tree in the U S Marine Hospital in San Francisco in 1871 and [illegible] unusual facilities for testing the various methods of preparing the remedy and its uses. It can be relied upon as certain to give the prompt [illegible] testimonials [illegible] can be seen at his office, 305 Kearny street San Francisco

TUESDAY MORNING JULY 29 1873

A POEM BY FRED W LORING

FOUND AMONG THE EFFECTS ON HIS BODY AFTER HE WAS SLAIN BY THE APACHES

Do [illegible] ask me starry eyes
To describe the [illegible] true
Wonder not at my surprise
Who should know as well as you
Think of all that [illegible] has seen
All the [illegible] that have been
He is true whose [illegible] is shown
For her sake and [illegible]

What he has [illegible]
Yet he hopes it wins [illegible] the fight,
All that in his soul has grown,
To her sovereign feet is brought
To his soul her image clings
She seems woven in all things
And each thought that [illegible]
Is not for his sake, but hers

For her sake he will endure
For her sake he will [illegible]
Bravely bearing her [illegible]
Censure slander [illegible]
If another wins her heart
Sadly he will from her part,
Sadly bravely true love is
For her sake and [illegible]

This is the true lover sweet—
True as ever [illegible]
[illegible]
[illegible]
Darling, yet this is not true—no
For I could not let you go
I must keep you where you have grown
For my sake and for your own

For your own because I [illegible]
More than any other [illegible]
More than ever love could [illegible]
Heart of any former man
Look at me and then agree
None have ever loved like me
For whatever I may do
Is because I live in you

Kiss, and so shut speech away
When old age your life has spent,
'Twill be time enough to say
What is love in argument?
For the present all stars shine
You are here and you are mine,
Love makes light and song and flowers
For whose sake? Dear love for ours

Great circumlocution is necessary in Nevada before a traveler can secure dinner at a hotel One rode up to a country inn the other day and [illegible] dinner, and fired at the host, killing a guest. The host shot back, wounding a boy A merchant then joined in and shot the traveler's horse, when the traveler killed a saloon keeper This ended the shooting for a time, and the landlord was hurrying up dinner when the stranger was taken out [illegible].

A young Englishman, by learning a little [illegible] as a lawyer's clerk, got out of a breach of promise case very neatly He paid his addresses chiefly by letter and in the [illegible] style to a very pretty girl, but the [illegible] young man invariably signed "[illegible] "Believe me, my own dearest, divinest, [illegible] Angelina, your fondest, most devoted (but without prejudice) Tommy" Angelina didn't understand the legal phrase; but it saved Thomas

A [illegible] journalist, who is often merry over his personal plainness, tells this story of himself "I went once to a drug store for a dose of morphine for a sick friend The night clerk objected to giving it to me without a prescription, fearing I was going to kill myself 'Pshaw!' said I, 'do I look like a man who would destroy himself?' Gazing steadily at me he replied. 'I don't know Seems to me if I looked like you I should be greatly tempted to kill myself.'"

ADVENTURES OF A UTICA MAN WHO FOUND A HOG IN HIS GARDEN

The Utica Herald employs a genius who is emulative of the fame of the Danbury News man Here is his latest achievement

I do not like pork as an article of diet, but as a means of promoting an appetite I have no hesitancy in recommending it

Who owned the particular pig which promoted my appetite most could never be found out Every few days an insane man would be raving around with a hatchet and a gun and a dog, inquiring who owned that pig and nothing [illegible] about it, except that the pig belonged to one of the neighbors One of the neighbors ought to be ashamed of himself whoever he is I never [illegible] what that pig wanted around our house He seemed to be looking for something in the flower beds, among the potatoes, in the poultry yards, and once or twice he walked in at the front door He was looking for something, and he found everything I should think except the cellar drain but he still wore a sadly dissatisfied air It finally occurred to me that the pig thought the fence ought to be fixed, and, as I wanted to do something to [illegible] him, I went out the next morning and collected all the broken boards and things I could find and fixed the fence and after it was all done the pig was following me toward the house for breakfast I did not know where he got in, and he did not know, but I made up my mind that he must find the place He was willing enough to look for it, and I chased him over the currant bushes and over a table cloth spread out to bleach and in among the dahlias and over the onions and everywhere else but he didn't find the hole he came in at, nor did I However I had an appetite for breakfast

Then Maria came out and stood on the back steps like a female Napoleon and issued orders and proclamations and general directions with the rapidity of chain lightning, and, with a beautiful and implicit trust in Providence threw fire-bricks and coal shovels, and sad irons and stove-wrenches and broken crockery with her left hand and if her right hand knew what the left was doing, it knew a pile more than I could keep track of The pig upset a hen-coop and stepped on three chickens and made a maniac of the old hen who blamed me for the whole affair and acted accordingly and then the pig got into the corn and refused to come out under any circumstances although I had given up the idea of finding where he came in and had opened the gate and let down the bars Maria went into the house for some furniture to throw and I tried to set the dog on the pig The dog had learned to regard the pig as one of the family and could not understand my allusions and finally got out of patience and inserted a fine set of natural teeth in my left leg He did not get the wrong pig by the ear, but it amounted to the same thing so far as I am concerned Maria came out with a broom, and explained the situation to the dog and the dog went into the corn after the pig and came back in thirty seconds a blinking [illegible] I had appetite enough for a week Finally I borrowed two boys from a neighbor and the grocer's man and we drove the pig out after he had tramped down all the corn, and he made for a place in the picket fence where there never had been a hole and made one and got out My appetite would have justified me in [illegible] that pig, but circumstances would not allow Who is my neighbor and that's what I want to know—the neighbor who owns that pig

Wheat in Liverpool—Average [illegible] 12s 8d [illegible]

The week opens without [illegible] trade circles [illegible] prices are about the same the amount of [illegible] investment is greater [illegible] year The producers of the country being now [illegible] Merchants in the [illegible] are forwarding produce however in quantities quite sufficient to supply the [illegible] trade while the demand for shipping is [illegible] at this season The farmers of the country are generally in better condition than they were at the beginning of the harvest last year and it is reported [illegible] will probably be backward in disposing of their wheat at the prices likely to be offered for the first of the new crop Money is rather easier and we are loth to believe that such a scarcity will prevail during the fall season as was felt last year In the East there is a very favorable condition of finance [illegible] The Chicago [illegible] of July 18th says

The light rise in gold during the week was doubtless owing to the exportation of a million or two to Europe but while our specie is thus depleted it is a source of satisfaction that the value of our government bonds are appreciated by the far seeing Government of Prussia which to the ten millions purchased a few weeks since, has added two millions more during the last week As to our local money market we have again to report money abundant at legal interest for all who have good paper to offer and for very extra choice paper money may be obtained at 8½ per cent On the street business is quiet and few transactions reported Movement of the currency to the country is light and receipts meagre Exchange on New York 25c premium between banks

The Way it is Done.

The way they do business in Wall street is thus described The private bankers and brokers in New York who are the leading consumers of the demand money operate upon a style and scale somewhat peculiar to the locality Up to the close of banking hours they check upon the banks where they keep their accounts as their necessities may require and the banks of New York stand ready to certify for their reputable depositors to a well nigh unlimited extent in advance of actual deposits relying upon the depositors to cover all these certifications before close of business As the hour of three approaches the borrowers cipher out their cash needs, grab up a bundle of securities stocks or bonds or something of the sort and go for a loan In negotiating these loans of minute money no notes for the same are passed between the lenders and borrowers, as the busy operators consider such vouchers entirely unnecessary and taking too much time for their preparation

Tonnage at San Francisco.

The Commercial Herald of July 24th says of the tonnage supply at San Francisco that the market is at present well supplied with tonnage with but little new business transpiring Freights are more or less nominal The British iron ship Thomas Hamlin is now advertised for London direct and to take freight in quantities to suit shippers at £4 5s The offerings, however are light, and she, with other vessels on the United Kingdom berth fill up slowly The ship Ellen McNeil for Liverpool direct gets £4 15s and this may be considered the present nominal rate to a direct port. There is quite an export trade in barley for Peru In all, five vessels taken during the current month

Miscellaneous.

The duties paid at the Custom House in San Francisco from July 1st to the 23d were $406 87 76 The following is a monthly statement of the amounts paid since January 1st

July (to 23d)	$406,587 76	March	$[illegible]
June	726,642 30	February	80,403 91
May	593,[illegible] 47	January	744 6[illegible] 49
April	517,[illegible]
Total since January 1 1873			$4 274 476 96
Corresponding period, 1872			4 464 314 79
Decrease this year			$189 877 83

The total exports of treasure from July 1st to date have been $1,357 582 98 previously this year $12 349 741 95 total since January 1st, $13,707,324 93, as compared with $18,125 294 for the corresponding period in 1872—showing a decrease this year of $4 418 060 07

During the first six months of 1873 the arrivals at the port of San Francisco were 1 64[illegible] vessels aggregating 607 771 tonnage as against 1 589 vessels of 553,287 tons in 1872 The clearances were, in 1873, 478 vessels of 588,128 tons, against 378 vessels of 716 407 tons in 1872.

The total freights realized on case goods from foreign and domestic ports for the first six months of 1873 were $2,211 123 a decrease of $23,624 as compared with the corresponding time in 1872.

The exports of petroleum from the port of Philadelphia for the fiscal year ending, June 30, 187[illegible] were as follows

	Gallons	Value
Crude	4 083 872	$ 821 449
Refined	62 400,11[illegible]	13,6[illegible] 10[illegible]
Benzine and naphtha	1,586,577	242,862
Totals	69 068 561	$14 690 407

The exports for the years 1871 2 were 56 0[illegible]8 787 gallons, valued at $12,06[illegible],188 a gain of 13,019,777 gallons, and $2 2[illegible] in money value

Home Produce Market.

Our market under this head to-day has presented a very quiet state of affairs The heated term is fairly upon us, and tends in a great measure to check any activity that might be exhibited when the far greater portion of the sellers are busy in harvesting the immense grain crop of the country The season is later than usual, and producers are now said to have a great rush of work on hand as early and later sown grain fields are ripening much more nearly at the same time than in ordinary seasons The protracted rains brought the grain all along to a state that required only the warm sunshine to ripen it to render it ready for the reaper while none of it actually ripened Owing to this home work which farmers now have on hand there are but few now in the market making offers Quotations are furnished by leading buyers at rates about as follows

WHEAT—There appears to be very little offering of the old crop and but few contracts made for the new We quote $1 5[illegible] per cental as still steering [illegible] exporters.

FLOUR—A fair trade is noted at quotations ranging from $4 75 ⅌ bbl for fine to $5 for extra of fancy brands.

OATS—Harvest too near and prospects of the new crop too good to warrant any active demand or call out large orders at current rates We quote at 42½ a45c per bushel

BARLEY—The local demand creates the only noticeable activity in the market and keeps prices at $1 [illegible] $1 10 [illegible]

HAY—The receipts of the new crop keep up the supply for all present demand Good baled timothy quotable at $14 ⅌ ton loose $10a12

FEED—We quote bran in good supply at $18 ⅌ ton chops, middlings [illegible] $2[illegible]

POTATOES—The market well supplied at [illegible] ⅌ bbl

ONIONS—Small lots of new crop offering, and taken at 2½c [illegible] ⅌ lb Demand dull

BUTTER—There is a large supply on hand though the receipts of the past [illegible] days have been small Prices are unchanged common [illegible] ranging at 15a18 cents while No. 1 for table use is in demand at 25 cents

EGGS—There have been some very bad lots received recently and a only temporary demand has kept figures up We quote to-day at 20 c22c per dozen [illegible]

BACON—The call is light and well supplied with the stocks on hand which cannot be shipped to advantage We quote ordinary lots at 8c [illegible] per lb for shoulders [illegible] for sides and 11 [illegible] for hams

CHICKENS—Spring chickens are in fair demand and for good lots buyers are offering $2 [illegible] per dozen Grown hens in choice lots [illegible] $1 [illegible]

HIDES—We quote a moderate demand at [illegible] per lb for green and [illegible] for dry

WOOL—The week opens with some stock in the market though prices are unchanged We hear of no important transactions to day The sale of some 40,000 lbs at 28½ cents delivered at Roseburg depot as noted by us this morning was certainly a fair one for the sellers as this market now runs though it can hardly be taken as a standard for the average lots offering here for the reason that it was an unusually large lot and of choice quality and all to be placed in the [illegible] warehouse in less than ten days from the date of the sale We would again call attention of wool growers to the importance of packing their product in a more cleanly assorted and merchantable shape as it will not only establish a better reputation and create a greater demand for Oregon wool abroad but will actually repay them for the trouble on each [illegible] so cleaned assorted and packed
